Dear Miss Dixon:

I am writing to let you know how much I appreciate your new product, Calmoseptine Ointment.

In January and April of this year, respectively, I had a two-stage surgery which involved removing my colon, creating an illeoanal reservoir and finally, the closure. After the closure (and for some time to come) I've experienced mild to severe skin irritations and itching because of caustic stool. The E.T. nurse at Providence Medical Center, Sandy Toner, gave me samples of your product.

After trying Bag Balm, Desitin, Benadryl, Caldecort, and finally Calmoseptine Ointment to relieve pain and itching, I found your product to be soothing and it provided me with the most relief of all these products. Calmoseptine Ointment protects my skin, relieves itching, and helps to heal skin irritations.

I use your product exclusively and have recommended it to other patients who have undergone similar surgeries.

At this time, I would also like to thank you for your promptness in sending my mail order. As I explained to you on the telephone, no medical supply store in this area carries your product. I, and others, will have a need for Calmoseptine Ointment indefinitely and I look forward to when your product is readily available in this area.

Once again, thank you for a product that helps make my smile a little wider and my day a little brighter!

Sincerely,

Denise M.
